

Diane Cashion

Diane Cashion is an experienced photographer and teacher. Her body of work spans several decades. Since moving to North Carolina, she has exhibited her work in several area galleries, including the Frank Gallery and Thru This Lens. She has entered and received award recognition in photographic competitions and was a Second Place Scenery winner of The Annual News and Observer Travel Photo Contest.

While she most often shoots with her digital SLR, she has also developed an expertise in iPhoneography.

Her work has been described as “lifestyle photography” and she loves to share her travel and family photos online at DianeCashionPhotography.com and in books which she designs and publishes.

She is a member of the Chapel Hill Camera Club and teaches photography skills in small group settings.